Special Educational Needs (SEN) Information Report – Academic Year 2023 - 2024

The SEN information report is a requirement on schools under section 69 of the Children and Families Act (2014). The information required is set out in the Special Educational Needs and Disability Regulations - Clause 65 (2014) and further guidance is contained in the Special Educational Needs Code of Practice (2015).

The information below forms our own Special Educational Needs information report and details how Whitewater Church of England Primary School provides for children with special educational needs. Our Christian values of 'love, courage and respect' are at the heart of what we do for all of our pupils.

1. How is Whitewater organised?

The kinds of special educational needs for which provision is made at the school.

Whitewater Church of England Primary School has an Executive Head Teacher, an Executive Head of School and a Head of School, one Governing Body and one Executive Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator (SENCO). The schools are committed to meet the needs of all pupils and therefore endeavour towards inclusive education. All children, regardless of additional needs, are cared for and supported.

2. How would Whitewater know if my child needs extra support and what do I do if I think my child has special educational needs?

Information about the school's policies for the identification and assessment of pupils with special educational needs

To aid identification of special educational needs, we integrate the graduated approach using the 'Assess, Plan, Do, Review' cycle. At Whitewater, children are identified as having special educational needs via the following ways:

- Close liaison at transition - be that from pre-schools and nurseries into Year R, from Year 6 onto secondary or children arriving from or leaving to start at other schools.
- Concerns raised by class teachers
- Concerns raised by parents
- Concerns raised by the child
- If the child is performing below age expected levels
- Health diagnoses by a paediatrician or other professional

Whitewater Church of England Primary School

If you have any concerns about your child, our open door policy means that you can make an appointment to come in and discuss your concerns at any time. You can talk to any of the following people:

- Your child's class teacher
- Your child's key stage leader
- Special Educational Needs Coordinator – Mrs Bryony Bligdon
- Head of School – Mrs Michelle Elie
- Executive Head of School – Mr Steve Moore
- Executive Head Teacher - Mr Glen Golding

Our collaboration has developed a prompt sheet to structure thoughts and conversations regarding identification of special educational needs entitled 'Let's Think about The Child'. This is based on the principles of the Code of Practice (2015) and helps to ensure that identification of special educational needs keeps the best interests of the child paramount. Once a concern has been raised, the school may assess your child further to allow clearer identification of the nature of the need. This will help us to ensure that appropriate provision is put in place to support your child.

Assessments used include:- Dyslexia Early Screening Test (DEST); York Assessment of Reading Comprehension (YARK); Sandwell Numeracy Assessment; Sound Linkage (A phonics screening programme); Screening and Intervention for Dyslexia, Notably in the Early Years (SIDNEY); Boxall Profiles (to clarify SEMH needs) and Speech and Language screenings including Renfrew Language Scales and Language Link.

When appropriate, we liaise with external agencies such as Educational Psychologists (EP), Speech and Language Therapists (SALT), Primary Behaviour Service (PBS), Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS), Occupational Therapy, Maple Ridge Outreach or the Specialist Advisory Teachers services for Visual, Hearing or Physical Impairment. All of these agencies work closely with both school and parents.

3. Information about the school's policies for making provision for pupils with special educational needs whether or not pupils have EHC Plans, including:

(a) How will Whitewater know how well my child is doing?

How the school evaluates the effectiveness of its provision for such pupils

Whitewater Church of England Primary School

At Whitewater, it is our aim to ensure that all children make good progress from whatever their starting point. Through robust and regular monitoring we analyse individual children's progress and put in place relevant next steps targets and additional provision required. This is done for all children, not just those who have special educational needs.

All children who have special educational needs have their progress carefully recorded and monitored and have specific targets set. These targets are recorded on an Individual Support Plan (ISP), which is regularly monitored and reviewed termly. New targets are set according to the child's progress and needs. The child's progress and targets can be discussed with class teachers or the SENCO/Inclusion Leader at any time. Progress against these targets is also discussed with parents at termly parents meetings. A summary of the child's targets, provision and progress goes home to parents alongside their annual school report. Some children with a primary area of need in social, emotional and mental health may have an additional Individual Behaviour Management Plan (IBMP).

Some children with more complex needs may have an 'Education and Health Care Plan' (EHCP) which is reviewed annually. This is a meeting, when outside agencies are invited and an official report is drawn up and sent to the county SEN team. When outside agencies are involved, parents are informed and usually invited to meet the relevant professional, as a parent you know your child better than anyone.

(b) How is this information passed on to me?

The school's arrangements for assessing and reviewing the progress of pupils with special educational needs

Teaching staff hold termly progress meetings to discuss all children, but particular focus is paid to those with SEN, and the SENCO uses the information from these meetings to track all children's progress to ensure the correct interventions and provision is in place. In addition to this, regular contact is maintained through home school books, termly parent meetings and annual reports. The senior leadership team (SLT) also have termly pastoral meetings to ensure that children are accessing the correct provision for their needs.

(c) How will the staff at Whitewater support my child?

The school's approach to teaching pupils with special educational needs

All teachers at Whitewater are teachers of children with SEN. Learning in all lessons is appropriately differentiated to ensure learning at the right level and children are supported according to their need. Inclusivity is important to us. It is our aim that the majority of learning differences are addressed within the class through 'quality first teaching'. Some staff have specialist training in meeting social and emotional needs, supporting children with learning difficulties and supporting children with speech, language and communication difficulties. Sometimes pupils work in small groups or on individual programmes as well as in whole class settings.

(d) How will the curriculum at Whitewater be matched to my child's needs?

How the school adapts the curriculum and learning environment for pupils with special educational needs

We are committed to giving all of our children every opportunity to achieve the highest of standards. We do this by taking account of pupils' varied life experiences and needs. We feel that this is reflected in our Christian values of 'Love, Respect and Courage'. We offer a broad and balanced curriculum which is reviewed termly and we have high expectations for all children. We use a range of teaching and learning strategies to ensure all children make progress, regardless of their starting points. These include; support staff in every class, differentiation, questioning, feedback, modelling and peer/self assessment. We work in collaboration with outside agencies, if applicable, to adapt the curriculum and implement further strategies to support individuals. The achievements, attitudes and well-being of all our children matter. Whitewater promotes the individuality of all our children, irrespective of ethnicity, attainment, age, disability, gender or background. This is achieved through quality first teaching and an ongoing programme of staff training

(e) How is the decision made about the type and quantity of support my child will receive?

Additional support for learning that is available to pupils with special educational needs.

The need of each individual child is assessed regularly alongside the impact of any provision that the school has in place. The decision regarding the type and quantity of provision required is primarily the class teacher's responsibility. This will initially be the result of a discussion between the class teachers and the SENCO but may also, depending on the needs of the child, include discussions with outside agencies. The Senior Leadership Team (SLT) makes further decisions, such as how much additional support is available in the classroom. We aim to involve both the child and their parents in these decisions and ensure that close liaison supports this.

(f) How will my child be included in activities outside the classroom?

Activities available for pupils with special educational needs in addition to those available in accordance with the curriculum.

Whitewater Church of England Primary School

We are a fully inclusive school and take any reasonable action to ensure that a child with SEN can access all learning opportunities and aspects of school life. Children with special educational needs are included in all school activities, including school trips, unless there are implications for their own or other's safety. This includes residential trips. Any concerns about school trips can be discussed with trip organisers.

(g) What support is available at Whitewater for my child's overall well-being?

Support that is available for improving the emotional and social development of pupils with special educational needs.

The school's ethos is one where pastoral support is as important as academic support. The children have regular assemblies focused on learning about how we care for ourselves. All classes also have a 'Brilliant Brain Box', which contains sensory items available to aid self-regulation.

ELSAs are trained by the Educational Psychology Service and are able to offer one to one sessions focused on advice and strategies for a specific emotional need.

We have a very clear behaviour code that all children are encouraged to follow. Some children who have social and emotional difficulties that may manifest with difficulties regulating emotions and behaviour may have an Individual Behaviour Management Plan (IBMP) to help them develop and implement strategies to ensure their inclusion in all school activities.

All staff are trained in Safeguarding Procedures and we have a number of specially trained Designated Safeguarding Leads in school. Please see our Child Protection and Safeguarding policies for further information about our safeguarding procedures.

In addition to this, we are fully committed to supporting quality emotional development. Recent training led by our SENCO ensured that all staff have a knowledge of child development in respect of neurodiversity and know relevant strategies to support children at all levels of development.

12. How will Whitewater prepare and support my child to join the school or move to another school?

The school's arrangements for supporting pupils with special educational needs in transferring between phases of education or in preparing for adulthood and independent living.

Transition between schools is extremely important for children with SEN. Therefore, the schools have a clear transition programme at all stages. On entry to Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) staff liaise closely with the feeder pre-schools and nurseries. Transition meetings with parents, teachers and SENCOs from both stages take place for children with identified SEN. All children have several visits to the school during the summer term and home visits take place at the start of September. When moving on to secondary school, the SENCOs from both schools have a transition meeting and can arrange for parents to be present at this. Some children have additional preliminary visits. If a child moves to or from another school at any other time liaison will take place between class teachers and /or SENCOs and all relevant paperwork is shared.
